Stuart Levine & Microsoft...A Great Team!

Stuart Levine will take part in Microsoft's Live Advisor Seminar Series on January 17, 2007. Just in time to ring in the New Year!

"Microsoft invited Stuart because of his expertise and reputation within the small business industry," said Jessica Leonard of Microsoft's Live Office Advisor Seminar Series. In a recent letter to Stuart, she encouraged him to "join in this prestigious program to help small businesses succeed."

The goal of the seminar series is to become an engaging place for small business executives and leaders to get useful and targeted information on running their businesses, including everyday applications that will help them succeed. The summit will also provide innovative concepts, thought leadership, and direction that will help attendees set goals, aim higher and thrive. Stuart will help to make this a reality!

CUT TO THE CHASE is an invaluable resource to help readers make the most effective use of their limited time. As Levine says, "Cutting to the chase is about more than getting to the point. It's about defining your purpose...knowing your world...concentrating...and ultimately, it's about understanding that your time is, quite literally, your life."

Stuart R. Levine is Chairman and CEO of Stuart Levine & Associates, LLC, an international consulting and leadership development company. Previously, Levine was the CEO of Dale Carnegie & Associates where he co-authored the international bestseller The Leader in You. He is also the author of the national bestseller, The Six Fundamentals of Success. He has appeared on NBC-TV's the Today show, CNN, CNBC, and PBS and has been profiled in the New York Times and USA Today.
